My mom would read it and then call me later to talk to me about it and what she thought. We were brought closer together than before thanks

Kurzbeschreibung I want you to know and believe that you are loved more than anything on earth. No matter what you do or don't do, say or don't say, start or don't start, finish or don't finish, accomplish or don't accomplish, you will still be my child. I will still love you. Autorenkomentar The impetus for this book I wrote this from the heart, to my son, when he left for college. Seeing him leave home tore me up, and I know many boomers are going through the same. I've gotten countless letters from parents who appreciated my putting their emotions into words as a gift to their sons or daughters.
