Von Michael McDonnell : Banshee (A Dermot O'Hara Mystery Book 2) (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Banshee (A Dermot O'Hara Mystery Book 2) (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Very good MysteryVon AngelatlantisI liked this book a lot - it has a good story and interesting and believable characters. I hope to see more Dermot O'Hara mysteries for Kindle soon, the first one was a very enjoyable read.

Kurzbeschreibung s: "Truly fantastic read"By Jason Allen Verified Purchase"Simply outstanding literature. There is a fair sense of humour, drama, and unlike any other book I have read, I felt truly empathetic towards the characters in the novel. If you are reading this very brief review, please read this book! Don't judge the book by its cover!"A great read! By Vicky Verified PurchaseThis book has a lovely atmospheric start that draws you in and it then turns into a real page turner. Sympathetic characters and great writing. It will make you want to visit Ireland! Highly recommended.Thoroughly enjoyable read June 10, 2014By carole dunphe Verified PurchaseThis is the first book I have read by Michael McDonnell but not my last. I loved all the characters especially Inspector O'Hara. I would recommend this book to anyone who likes mystery with a little romance added. Jo his wife is intriguing and caught my attention from the start. A few twists and turns and the book had me looking for more. Enjoy. I am starting the next book now. I can't wait.Terrific book!By Maureen Kelleher Verified Purchase Those who enjoy Martha Grimes will love this book. Colourful characters, detailed description of the locale and a great mystery story. Can't wait to purchase the next Dermot O'Hara novel.Fabulous! By Catherine A Goldsmith Verified PurchaseI love this book. Very real characters and a true sense of Ireland. Looking forward to more from this author. A great holiday read.Excerpt:Jo, Dermot, Tom. God save us, this is a sorry sight. The doctor sighed and glanced round the group, all trying to avoid eye contact with one another. McAteer turned and started down the slipway towards the wreck. I suppose wed better see if the bodys still in the boat, Dermot wished he could turn back the clock. But the life force that had been Peter Foley was gone.Synopsis:When Peter Foleys fishing boat sinks in the waters off the coast of Ireland, a lethal secret is revealed. Local superstition claims that when death is imminent supernatural forces manifest themselves and the Banshee sings. Dismissing this as nonsense and with terrible danger facing Kenmare, Inspector Dermot OHara confronts unseen powers and his old nemesis, Assistant Commissioner Quinn. New passion is born but an old ghost and past sins emerge to torment Dermot and threaten his cozy existence. All the police officer's detective skills are called on to solve the mystery and save his town. So great are the dangers that even the love of his wife and the loyalty, humour and friendship of the regulars in Crowleys Bar, appear inadequate against the forces opposing them. A colourful cast, from former FBI man Frank McMahan, who could happily live on a diet of Irish stew and Black Bush whiskey, to the journalist known as the Beast, populate the pages of this romantic Irish thriller.Cover art is 'Rueckkehr' reproduced by kind permission of Ute Laum.You can see more of Ute's paintings at: <http://www.utelaum.de>Categories: holiday read holiday reading fiction Irish detective police crime thriller.

Friends, enemies and relatives know me as Mial Pagan (Mial is a result of a childhood friend saying Michael very fast). Originally from Belfast I now live in St Albans, just north of London. My professional career began as a Drama Therapist working in hospitals and day centres around

London. I moved into I.T. and eventually began writing articles for business magazines. If you see a slightly haphazard approach to career planning here you may well be right. One despairing school careers adviser came to the conclusion, as he surveyed my abysmal maths, science and history results, that writing might be a good (he was too polite to say only) choice. After a delay of a couple of decades, I took his advice. My business books are published by Hodder Education in their Teach Yourself series. I've also written two plays, Other Peoples Lives and Dancehall Sweethearts which have been produced at the Abbey Theatre. A screenplay, Paradise Place, is going into production in April 2013.
