

[Mobile ebook] Fuckin' Foreigner (English Edition)

Fuckin' Foreigner (English Edition)

Von Igor Ilic

ebooks | Download PDF | *ePub | DOC | audiobook

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

Produktinformation Verffentlicht am: 2012-03-18Erscheinungsdatum: 2012-03-18File Name:
B007RH5V3A | File size: 61.Mb

Von Igor Ilic : Fuckin' Foreigner (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Fuckin' Foreigner (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A true story, about pursuing a dream with all the ups and downs the life bringsVon JonathanThe reader is introduced to the life of a Croat, who decided to search for a better life and is lead by his will and determination in the pursue of this dream. The story is about his life in America-the stony way full of ups and downs, with both the unforgettable moments and problems the every-day life was bringing. This approach is giving the novel a very personal touch I think this makes the reader being able to relate to the situations he is in. The novel is written in a very simple manner which I found very unique: not only that it portrays the character's personality, but also gives the whole plot both something edgy and unpredictable which his life truly seems to be. The quick and rather inventive verbal humour that comes through here and then gives the plot again the realistic sense. The book is to recommend especially for the ones looking for a true yet witty life story.

Kurzbeschreibung "True story: A Croat in America in search for a better life" The book has been written in a witty, yet realistic manner. It is based on true events and facts about a period of author's life in emigration, on his way of coping and adjusting to a new world and new surroundings. It is aimed at a broad circle of readers, from small common man to educated men who had to leave their homeland for different reasons. The main reason for emigration is a quest for better earnings and better life that America, as a promised land, has been offering for more than a century to newcomers from all over the world. Many Croats, one of them being the author of this novel, have also found better life in America. The book describes how much effort and resourcefulness had been invested into obtaining a visa and getting over the big pond, and later into survival under the pressure of everyday problems encountered on the lookout for a job and better earnings. A big, maybe even most considerable problem is illegal life as well as obtaining documents. Language incompetence is a new problem that, on top of everything, makes life very difficult. But faith in God and in himself, as well as his ever-present optimism lead the author of the novel towards his defined goal, in spite of big obstacles on his way that someone else might have considered insurmountable. He keeps going without looking back, often falling but rising again, pressing forward with even more determination. Adventure, optimism, courage and suspense are the words that describe best this piece of literature. Pressured by debt problems and unemployed, working for poor salary, victim of injustice at every step in Croatia, the thirty-one year old hero of this novel decides to go to California for a period of six months. Read about his journey, accommodation, life and work in this interesting, readable, easy flowing and exciting novel that will not leave you indifferent. Differences and comparisons with the new surroundings and different mentality often inhibit him and put obstacles in his way. This simple and true story will tell you how he copes, how he communicates and learns the new language, how he manages to find jobs, how he makes love and falls in love.

Kurzbeschreibung "True story: A Croat in America in search for a better life" The book has been written in a witty, yet realistic manner. It is based on true events and facts about a period of author's life in emigration, on his way of coping and adjusting to a new world and new surroundings. It is aimed at a broad circle of readers, from small common man to educated men who had to leave their homeland for different reasons. The main reason for emigration is a quest for better earnings and better life that America, as a promised land, has been offering for more than a century to newcomers from all over the world. Many Croats, one of them being the author of this novel, have also found better life in America. The book describes how much effort and resourcefulness had been invested into obtaining a visa and getting over the big pond, and later into survival under the pressure of everyday problems encountered on the lookout for a job and better earnings. A big, maybe even most considerable problem is illegal life as well as obtaining documents. Language incompetence is a new problem that, on top of everything, makes life very difficult. But faith in God and in himself, as well as his ever-present optimism lead the author of the novel towards his defined goal, in spite of big obstacles on his way that someone else might have considered insurmountable. He keeps going without looking back, often falling but rising again, pressing forward with even more determination. Adventure, optimism, courage and suspense are the words that describe best this piece of literature. Pressured by debt problems and unemployed, working for poor salary, victim of injustice at every step in Croatia, the thirty-one year old hero of this novel decides to go to California for a period of six months. Read about his journey, accommodation, life and work in this interesting, readable, easy flowing and exciting novel that will not leave you indifferent. Differences and comparisons with the new surroundings and different mentality often inhibit him and put obstacles in his way. This simple and true story will tell you how he copes, how he communicates and learns the new language, how he manages to find jobs, how he makes love and falls in love.

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende The author, Igor Ilic, was born on June 24th, 1970 in Zagreb, Croatia, where he attended primary school and graduated from high school. He enrolled at the Police College in Zagreb to study Criminology, but the whirlwind of war prevented him from continuing his studies. Enlisting as a volunteer he participated in the Homeland War for the independence of the Republic of Croatia from 1991 to 1994. This ex member of Special forces "Alpha" had several jobs in his homeland, but in 2001 his adventurous and entrepreneur spirit led him to the USA in search of new challenges and a better life.