Von Joe Brusha, Ralph Tedesco, Michael Dolce, Dan Wickline, David Seidman : Grimm Fairy Tales Vol. 6 (Grimm Fairy Tales (2007-2016)) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Grimm Fairy Tales Vol. 6 (Grimm Fairy Tales (2007-2016)):

two. When I read about Grimm Fairy tales I was thrilled, thinking it would be something like Fables, which is pure genius. Unfortunately, neither the art nor the fairy tales themselves (of the first two volumes, again) was anything even approaching Fables. The so-called 'Dark twist' of the fairy tales was usually nothing more than the original ending, not the baby-coddling one written in the 20th century to spare the poor innocent souls of the young. The art, one might think after looking at the cover, would be great--like DC comics, but no, inside, the art is sloppy, sometimes downright bad. The characters are often stupid, self-centered girls--fortunately, they often come to a bad ending, but still. If I wanted to watch mousy stupid girls get embarrassed by stupid vain girls, I'd read chicklit. Some of the stories are quite interesting. Some. Like, one in every volume. You want fairy tales twisted right, read Fables. If you want a cheap copy cat, stick to Grimm Fairy Tales.

KurzbeschreibungCollects GRIMM FAIRY TALES #31-36, plus a bonus short story and cover gallery! Fairy Tales and Fables have been passed down from generation to generation throughout the world for hundreds of years. But there has never been an adaptation quite like this! With Sela gone, Belinda is having a ball ruining the lives of almost everyone who crosses her path. A lonely puppet-maker creates a son from a cursed piece of wood only to have to face a terrifying reality; A mysterious and ancient statue has the power to keep those who possess it forever young, but at what cost? A painting ages for a man who finds that eternal youth is nothing but an eternal curse... Six new fairy tales retold and re-imagined with six incredible new twists that will leave readers wanting more!
