Von Dale Galloway : Leading with Vision (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Leading with Vision (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Leading With VisionVon Rev. Gary D. HughesThis book has been a team effort. Maxie Dunnam, John Maxwell, Elmer Towns, and James Earl Massey. The aughor Dale Galloway, is Professor of Biblical Preaching and church leadership at Asbury Theological Seminary. Such chapters as Power of Vision, Visionary Church INtegrity, and How to be a Christlike Servant Leader make this a great book.

KurzbeschreibungGeorge Barna says only four percent of pastors have a vision for their churches. Only four percent. That an insignificant number compared to the other 96 percent who must believe they can lead a church without any direction for the future. Because society and ministry have changed more in the last ten years than ever before, it is too easy for church leaders to become distracted, confused and lost. As a pastor, planning and passion go hand in hand with effective leadership and church growth. John Maxwell, Maxie Dunham, James Earl Massey, and others have come together with the Beeson Institute of Leadership to challenge those developing their ministry and leadership skills. Now the wisdom and insight of these Institute speakers has been written to provide every pastor a ready reference for their personal library and an effective tool for ministry.
