Von Christina Anonymous : The Totally True Diaries of an Eighties Roller Queen (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Totally True Diaries of an Eighties Roller Queen (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. so la laVon strIt is not as good as other novels.It is nice but not hilarious.Maybe it is something for teens.

KurzbeschreibungThese are the totally true diaries I kept in high school from 1983-1988. In 1995 I published my diaries online and received several international awards. The diaries were also rated as one of the top 10 websites in the country by The Computer Paper. After receiving threatening emails by a stalker, I took the diaries down. Now, thanks to Kindle e-publishing, I'm excited to share them in a different format, a bit more anonymously this time.I've fixed some pretty heinous spelling errors (I used to spell tomorrow 'tomorro') and I took out a few boring sentences. Otherwise, the entries are exactly how they were written.August 5, 1983 [Age 14]... I can hardly wait to go roller skating Sunday. I've gone every Sunday since last November... I'm looking forward to high school this year. My future goals are to become either a pilot or an architect. I also may look into becoming a private investigator.July 4, 1984 [Age 15]Today we went to Wonderland. Willow and I went on four roller coasters. We went on the Mine Buster four times, the Wild Beat six times and the Dragon Flyer five times. It went upside down. I scoffed nine stuffed animals. Willow scoffed nearly the same. We told my parents we won them. I also scoffed a hat, key chain, bear and a house. We just walked into gift stores and walked out with our arms full. No one suspected a thing! It was tremendous. We had a great time. I was really tired. We waited one hour to get on the Grand Canyon ride and found out it wasn't worth two shits. August 28, 1984 [Age 15]We got our half of a 26er of vodka and a 26er of Sherry... Tyrone flattened his back tire. I almost fell asleep and I think I'm going to go now but first I have to tell you something, okay? Tyrone is going to ask me to go with him tomorrow when I'm straight. I know it because he told me. Well, gotta go. Bye. I have to eat some crackers.July 12, 1985 [Age 16]Today Honey and I got wasted. Keith came over and Honey accidentally poured glue in my eye. She thought it was eye drops. My eyelashes stuck together and I had to pull them out. Now, I have no more eyelashes on my left eye.June 14, 1986 [Age 17]I went to the dance tonight. I danced a couple of slow songs with Len, until he jokingly tried to pull down my track pants. The first time we laughed. The second time I slapped him in the face and kneed him in the balls.December 15, 1984 [Age 14]We watched the first half of Dr. Strangelove today in English. It ties in with our discussion on nuclear war. I'm really scared of nuclear war! If it happens my life will probably be ruined. By the way, I plan to be a psychiatrist when I grow up, if I do live to see that time. With nuclear war I'm unsure of that. April 27, 1984 [Age 14]Today I slept over at Willow's to celebrate her 16th birthday... We saw movies and then snuck out until 4:00 a.m. It was tremendous. We whipped sand at Cam's window and his mom phoned the cops. Then we rang doorbells and walked by this one car where two people were going at it and all you could hear was the girl groaning. We were going to yell, "Hey, having fun." But we didn't. July 5, 1984 [Age 15]Today I went to the beach with Willow and Liza. Willow pigged out on all my food after telling me she wasn't my friend anymore. She doesn't want to be my friend because I wouldn't go to the dock. Also, she was mad at me because I met a guy named Toby and he had his head on my lap. Big f*ing deal! The water was fucking freezing anyway. Inside you'll find lots of retro eighties references and teenage drama that could only take place in a time before answering machines and call display. Try not to lose your snot from laughing at these totally true and absolutely absurd confessions. Who says there's nothing funny about being a teenager?KurzbeschreibungThese are the totally true diaries I kept in high school from 1983-1988.
