

(Free read ebook) Those '67 Blues (English Edition)

Those '67 Blues (English Edition)

Von B.K. Bryans

ebooks | Download PDF | *ePub | DOC | audiobook

 Download

 Read Online

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrang: #467196 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2011-02-13Erscheinungsdatum:
2011-02-13File Name: B004YFEU8A | File size: 69.Mb

Von B.K. Bryans : Those '67 Blues (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Those '67 Blues (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. eine ganze ra in 14 TageVon Johannes FaistAngenehm zu lesen , verfolgt das Buch das Leben, einer Hand voll Mensch, ber 14 Tage im Sommer 67 , welches sich in diesen 2 Wochen voller Ereignisse, vllig verndert. Ob auf vor, in oder ber Vietnam, genau so wie zuhause - empfehlenswert!

Kurzbeschreibung Those '67 Blues is an enlightening action novel of U.S. naval aviators aboard an aircraft carrier on Yankee Station during the Vietnam War. Sortie rates and aircraft losses trended strongly upward through the autumn months of 1967. Daily, the Pentagon sent major multi-aircraft Alpha strikes into the Iron Triangle delineated by Hanoi, Haiphong, and Nam Dinh. Navy all-weather A-6s went in low and alone at night. This is a day-by-day account of those missions and the men who flew them during two weeks of that fiery autumn. Feel the tension build in the cockpit of an A-6 Intruder as it homes in on a well-defended target, and the shivering adrenalin release that comes hours after a harrowing mission. Experience the terror as a SAM surface-to-air missile tracks its target. Live the fear of being shot down, hunted, and then tortured by the North Vietnamese. Meanwhile, the aviators wives and children back home live through fears and problems of their own during a war that few people understand and many despise.

Kurzbeschreibung Those '67 Blues is an enlightening action novel of U.S. naval aviators aboard an aircraft carrier on Yankee Station during the Vietnam War. Sortie rates and aircraft losses trended strongly upward through the autumn months of 1967. Daily, the Pentagon sent major multi-aircraft Alpha strikes into the Iron Triangle delineated by Hanoi, Haiphong, and Nam Dinh. Navy all-weather A-6s went in low and alone at night. This is a day-by-day account of those missions and the men who flew them during two weeks of that fiery autumn. Feel the tension build in the cockpit of an A-6 Intruder as it homes in on a well-defended target, and the shivering adrenalin release that comes hours after a harrowing mission. Experience the terror as a SAM surface-to-air missile tracks its target. Live the fear of being shot down, hunted, and then tortured by the North Vietnamese. Meanwhile, the aviators wives and children back home live through fears and problems of their own during a war that few people understand and many despise.

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende B.K. Bryans was a teenage cowboy on two southern Arizona ranches before he became the young horse wrangler for a film company shooting western movies for television at the Old Tucson movie set. After two years at the University of Arizona, he entered the Naval Aviation Cadet Program in Pensacola, Florida, and became a carrier-qualified jet pilot at age twenty. As a naval aviator, Brian flew 3,669 hours in thirteen different types of aircraft, made 652 carrier landings (163 of them at night), and flew 183 combat missions in A-6 Intruders during the Vietnam War. He was awarded the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and thirteen Air Medals. He went on to command Attack Squadron Thirty-Five (VA-35) aboard USS Nimitz. While in the Navy, Brian earned a B.A. in Mathematics and an M.S. in Operations Research Systems Analysis. Besides his flying tours, Brian served as aide to the Senior Member of the United Nations Armistice Commission in Korea, aide to the Commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, and Chief of Special Studies for the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He retired from the U.S. Navy as a captain. Brian then worked as a consultant and software developer before serving as a manager with the Arizona state government. He is now retired and resides in Tuscon, Arizona with his wife Pat.