a professional tourism book. The articles have personality, feelings, and the requisite facts but are presented to the reader in a manner which suggests one-on-one conversations. The range of topics is universal meaning that you will find an article in the book on almost anything concern visit to Thailand. Phuket or Samoi, Bangkok or Pattaya, or discourses on life in a Wat or life in Patpong are all here. Chang Mai and the highlands or the peninsula southern regions are all on view. A most enjoyable book. When I return in mid November, please contact me if you have any questions from a returning visitor.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A somewhat disjointed collection of impressionsVon Geoff PuterbaughThere are a number of pieces in this book written by people who speak Thai and understand Thailand to some extent, but there are too many "first impressions" for my taste -- pieces written by people totally new to Thailand and therefore reporting well-known facts such as "tropical heat" and "incandescent peppers". It's a likeable book but I didn't really learn anything from it.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Fantastic compilation of stories about ThailandVon Ein KundeReading this book feeds my homesickness for Thailand. The book contains dozens of non-fiction stories about Thailand written by all types of people: foreign and Thai, tourists, backpackers, religious seekers, scientists, officials, etc. This book is a must-read for anyone planning a visit to Thailand, or for those of us who have spent time there and miss it

KurzbeschreibungWinner of the Lowell Thomas Award for Best Travel Book, this newly designed collection paints a unique portrait of a complex and captivating land. One contributor lives as a monk for a month, gaining an inside look at monastic life. Another discovers Bangkok's riverine pleasures, a world away from its car-choked streets. Yet another finds refuge as the houseguest of an isolated tribesman. Through these engaging personal stories, readers witness how Thailand satisfies just about any travelers hunger for the exotic, the beautiful, the thrillingly different. Writers include Pico Iyer, Norman Lewis, Diane Summers, Simon Winchester, Ian Buruma, Thalia Zepatos, and Tim Ward. The breadth and color of the collective portrait [the contributors] provide of Thailand is remarkable. Los Angeles Times
